

CPCA Conferences & COVID-19

Your well-being is CPCA's top priority. Below is an overview of CPCA's policies and procedures in place to protect your health and peace of mind as you attend our scheduled 2022 in-person conferences.

---

New: Vaccination Requirement

CPCA will require proof of COVID-19 vaccination for all participants attending our in-person conferences.

Sponsors, Exhibitors and Vendors

Sponsors, Exhibitors and vendors contracting directly with CPCA will also need to provide proof of vaccination to participate in in-person conferences and events.

Hotel Staff

CPCA has adopted business operations guidelines that are designed to protect the health and safety of everyone who participates in our in-person events. To that end, we will only work with hotels that are fully compliant with current COVID-19 rules and regulations. In the future, CPCA will give preference to hotels that adopt mandatory vaccination policies for staff and guests. For now, we will continue to evaluate what is needed to ensure you are comfortable and all safety precautions are met. We will keep all participants updated as we get closer to the event and will update this section with more information as it becomes available.

---

Still have questions regarding your health and safety during CPCA's 2022 in-person conferences?

Please email Lindsey Ono, Assistant Director of Events & Sponsorship at lono@cpc.org.